The first part of the manuscript is a list of names and dates, written in a cursive hand. The names are often followed by a date, sometimes in parentheses. The list appears to be a record of births or deaths, as indicated by the dates. The handwriting is somewhat faded and the ink is dark, making it difficult to read in some places. The list continues across the page, with some names being more prominent than others.

The second part of the manuscript is a continuation of the list, with more names and dates. The handwriting is consistent with the first part, though there are some variations in the style of the letters. The list is organized in a similar fashion, with names and dates grouped together. The overall appearance of the manuscript is that of a historical record, possibly a church register or a family tree. The paper is aged and shows signs of wear, with some staining and discoloration.
